

People Are Sharing The Worst Things They've Ever Witnessed At A Wedding, And You Seriously Won't Know How To Respond

buzzfeed.com/asiawmclain/things-at-weddings

"My mom caught the mother of the groom blowing the bartender in the back room."

Posted on July 13, 2019, at 2:15 p.m.

Asia McLain
BuzzFeed Staff

If you've ever been to a wedding, you've probably seen your share of the good, the bad, and the totally awkward:

Well, a viral Reddit thread asked people to share the worst things they've ever witnessed at a wedding, and they will make you laugh, cringe, and go, "Seriously, WTF?!"

1. "When my uncle got married, the best man dropped the ring. In the dead silence of the church, you could hear it go, 'Ting, ting, ting,' as it bounced along the floor. One of the groomsmen whispered, 'Jesus Christ,' and the pastor — who didn't even bat an eye — replied, 'The ring has already been blessed, thank you.'"

—ink_monkey96

2. "I was at a wedding in which someone's sanitary pad fell off in the middle of the dance floor, and someone else just kicked it to the side...where it sat all night."

—stringring_vagblaster

3. "I went to my husband's brother's wedding a few years ago, and his ex showed up, uninvited. We thought it was a little weird at first, but didn't think too much of it when she sat down with her baby. But when the guests were asked if there were any objections, she stood up, said that the groom had gotten her pregnant, and that this was his

Vhl

"The groom tried to deny it, but she held up the proof. The bride ran of the wedding, and they broke up."

—weird_emo_person1

4. "My cousin had a break dancer at their wedding. He was pretty good, until he split his pants during his act, revealing to everyone the he was going commando. But he gave zero fucks, and just kept going."

—PmYourTopComment

5."At my sisters wedding, my mom caught the mother of the groom blowing the bartender in the back room."

—ohiomensch

6."I went to a wedding between an elderly pair, and the pastor didn't speak English very well. Well, when he got to the end of the ceremony, he said, 'You may kill the bride.' He quickly corrected himself, but the whole church cringed."

—kmarofseduction

7. "When the father of the groom stood up to make a toast, he asked his wife —in front of everyone— to confirm that he was not the groom's biological father. His wife was dead silent."

—RedditSkippy

8. "I worked a wedding for an older couple that had a groom's cake featuring a manicured hand holding a penis. The writing said, 'To have to have and to hold.'"

—wherestheflower

9. "My 13-year-old cousin was in charge of videotaping my mom's wedding ceremony on her cheap digital camcorder, and on our way to the reception, a guy on a bike pulled up next to our car, completely buck-naked. My cousin couldn't resist snagging a shot of that, and it turns out she recorded over some of my dad's vows! My mom now has a 10-second clip of a naked cyclist on her wedding video."

—lampyjay

10. "During the minister's speech, he asked, rhetorically, 'What is love?' and several groomsmen muttered, 'Baby, don't hurt me.'"

-PoseidonsHairyNipple

11. "At a wedding I attended, the groom slipped the bride a lot of tongue. Like an awkward, gross amount of tongue. Everyone was uncomfortable."

—Grawgar

12. "I was at a conservative Christian wedding when the officiant said, 'During my wedding night, there was something I really wanted to do, but I was too nervous to ask, so I didn't say anything. But I encourage you two to do it. And that thing is...kneel. And pray together.' The best man totally lost it, and it broke the tension in the room."

-thehairtowel

13. "The bride and groom were at the altar, and the minister said, 'We are in the presence of family and friends who are all here to give this union their blessing,' to which the groom's mother stood up and said, 'No, not everyone — I do NOT give this my blessing.' It was both horrible...and kind of hilarious."

—JedLeland

14. "The bride and groom smashed a cupcake into each other's face, so everyone else started throwing cupcakes at each other, too."

—Crown_of_roses

15. "I went to a very strange wedding in which the mother of the groom claimed she had a vision of 'heavenly gold dust' falling on the bride and groom on their big day. She then pulled out a container and started THROWING GOLD GLITTER at them! It was impossible not to laugh."

—MubbaBump22

16. "The groom's father showed up wearing red flannel, gumboots, and a fishing hat, showing us a nice snapper he'd just caught."

—PunchingDolphins

17. "The bride's two sisters recited their speeches word-for-word from the bridal shower scene in the movie Bridesmaids. Hardly anyone got it, and it was awkward."

—Poptart47

18. "When my father-in-law married my wife's stepmother, she came down the aisle with the back of her dress accidentally tucked into her nylons. We thought it was hilarious."

—Kopitarfan

19. "At my uncle's wedding, they had a drone film the whole ceremony. Needless to say, nobody could hear a single fucking thing."

—PleaseDontTellMyNan

20. "The bride's wedding vows ended with, 'I vow to never point a loaded gun at you again. Just remember, it's my world — you're just living in it.' Her family kept talking about how beautiful her vows were."

—22cthulu

Some responses have been edited for length and clarity.